GEOGRAPHICAL

The city of Burbank has a total area of 16.7 square miles at an altitude ranging from 484 to 957 feet above mean sea level. The geographical location is 118° 18' 26.02" W. longitude, 34° 10' 55.61" N. latitude. The climate is subtropical with an average annual temperature of 62.8 degrees and rainfall of 13.88 inches.

HISTORICAL

Two early 19th century land grants, Rancho Providencia and Rancho San Rafael, form the site of what is now the city of Burbank. Dr. David Burbank, for whom the city is named, settled here in 1867, owning the largest ranch in the area. In 1887 the original Burbank townsite was surveyed. The city was incorporated in 1911. The community's real growth started in the 1920's, continued through the 1930's, skyrocketed in the 1940's.

Burbank

CITY OF PROGRESS

The City of Burbank, gateway to the San Fernando Valley, is strategically located to all important points of interest in the Los Angeles Metropolitan Area.

Burbank became a city in 1911 when voters approved incorporation by an 81 to 51 majority. Still a small farming community in 1920, with a population of only 2913, Burbank has become California's fifteenth largest city with more than 97,600 people, 34,000 residences, 3000 commercial establishments, and 400 well diversified manufacturing plants.

BURBANK IS A SUBSTANTIAL CITY. Assessed property valuation here is exceeded by only eleven other cities in California.

BURBANK IS FAMED AS A CITY OF HOMEOWNERS. A large number of Burbank's families own the dwelling in which they live.

BURBANK IS A PROGRESSIVE CITY. $250,000,000 in industrial payrolls provide a sound basis for a well balanced economy.

The Burbank Unified School District system is rated one of the best in the state of California.

Burbank is well served by motor, rail, and air transportation. Principal highways connect Burbank with coastal, inland, and transcontinental routes. Burbank is the Southern Pacific railroad junction of Sacramento-San Joaquin Valleys and coastal rail lines. One of the nation's busiest air terminals (Hollywood-Burbank) is located within the city limits.

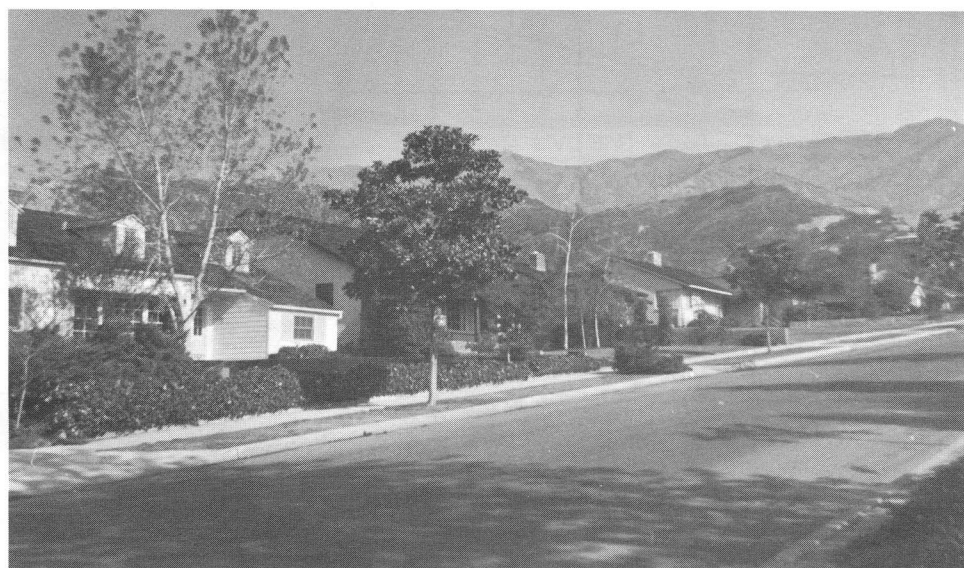

Burbank has a challenging civic, cultural, religious, and recreational life.

Scores of service clubs and civic organizations are active. Burbank's musical organizations are famed for their productions and wide citizen participation. Public recreation facilities furnish a complete program of sports, entertainment, and leisure-time activities.

Industrially, commercially, and from a residential standpoint, Burbank has won distinction as "The City of Progress."

Burbank City Hall is headquarters of the city's efficient manager-form government which has successfully met the problems of growing population.

Comfortable homes, well tended lawns and shrubbery, and paved streets characterize residential districts which house Burbank's 97,600 citizens.

Modern buildings, such as John Burroughs Senior High School pictured here, accommodate 16,000 pupils in Burbank's highly-rated public school system.

A product of Burbank's aircraft industry — Lockheed's new L-1011, the TriStar.

National Broadcasting Company facilities in Burbank — origination point for the nation's finest entertainment.

Burbank's municipally-owned utility system produces ample electric power and water for more than 34,000 homes and 400 industries.
